SMS restrictions and account limitations: If you are attempting to opt-in to this location service and you have not received the SMS text message requesting your consent or you received the messages, but when you attempt to reply to the message you do not receive a response, then it is likely that your mobile phone account is configured to block text messages from Short Codes. Short codes are shortened, non-standard phone numbers, also referred to as Promotional Codes or Computer Generated Codes.

To fix this challenge, contact your wireless phone carrier and ask that they enable your account to receive text messages from the Short Code. Make sure to inquire how long it will take for the change to be effective so that you can try again.
